

Call for Papers

The Copenhagen Conference on Strategic Management 2007

Over the past two years, the Copenhagen Conference on Strategic Management has gathered a select crowd of international executives and strategic management scholars to address current management issues and explore related research topics in strategic management.

The success of the previous CCSM events has encouraged us to announce this Call for Papers for the Copenhagen Conference on Strategic Management 2007 around the theme: Innovation in Corporate Strategy Development. The CCSM 2007 will take place December 11-12 at the Copenhagen Business School.

We invite submissions of research papers that deal with central aspects related to this general theme with the aim of presenting them as part of a series of stimulating paper sessions. The conference aims for a smaller number of high quality contributions. The target number of papers lies around 15-20 papers. The paper selection procedure will favour quality contributions with the potential to influence the strategy field and gather interest for open discussions.

The conference consists of two parts: (1) an executive event during the morning of December 11, and (2) academic panel discussions and paper sessions during the afternoon of December 11 and December 12.

Confirmed speakers for the conference (so far) include Robert Burgelman (Stanford), Yves Doz (INSEAD), Richard Bettis (UNC-Chapel Hill), and Majken Schultz (CBS) garnered with presentations by international top executives.
