The call for expression of interest

The Department of Digitalization (DIGI) at Copenhagen Business School (CBS) welcomes expressions of interest from postdoctoral researchers with an excellent track record of research and publication to apply jointly with a supervisor from the department at CBS to the Marie Skłodowska-Curie Postdoctoral Fellowship Scheme.

Research themes

Expressions of Interest that address one or more of the following research themes are welcome.

Subject: Securing Internet of Things (IoT): A Sociotechnical Perspective

The interconnection of devices through the Internet of Things (IoT) enables seamless integration, efficient data exchange, and effective collaboration. However, such automation also brings security challenges. In addition to technological vulnerabilities, human and organizational factors, including behavior, cognition, and interaction patterns, play a pivotal role in shaping the effectiveness of IoT security measures. Researching the security of IoT from a sociotechnical perspective is crucial not only for designing systems but also for reforming institutions to align with human and organizational behaviors and expectations.

As IoT devices increasingly integrate into various facets of our lives, shared responsibility emphasizes that all stakeholders are accountable for security. This shared responsibility acknowledges that IoT security is not solely the responsibility of one party but is a collaborative effort involving users, technology developers, and the broader community. In this regard, security solutions should be user-friendly, enabling every stakeholder to easily comprehend, trust, and engage with recommended practices.

This project aims to explore how human and organizational elements promote shared responsibility by predicting potential vulnerabilities arising from interacting with IoT technology, thereby guiding the creation of proactive security measures. We are looking for a candidate interested in researching the development of IoT cybersecurity strategies and policies that account for the complex interplay between people, processes, and technology.

Supervisor: Associate Prof. Qiqi Jiang
