

Name: Anker Brink Lund

Education: BA (political science), MA (political science) & Ph.D. (communications studies)

Professor of Media Management at the Department of Business and Politics, Copenhagen Business School (CBS). Founder and chair of the CBS Center for Civil Society Studies.

Before joining CBS in 2004, Professor of Media Sociology at the Department of Journalism (University of Southern Denmark), 1999-2004; Associate professor at the Department of Communications (Roskilde University), 1978-1998; Research assistant at the Danish Broadcasting Corporation (DR), 1978; Assistant professor at the Department of Press Research of the Danish School of Journalism, 1977-78; Assistant professor at the Department of Political Science (Aarhus University), 1976-77.

Current research topics: civil society studies, stakeholder relations, and valuation theory.

Most frequently cited publications:

Media System, Public Knowledge and Democracy: A Comparative Study. The European Journal of Communication 2009; 24 (1):5-26 (Co-Authors: James Curran, Shanto Iyengar & Inka Salovaara-Moring)

Cues to Action in the Process of Changing Lifestyle. Patient Education and Counseling 1997; 30 (1): 37-51 (Co-authors: Lucette K. Meillier & Gerjo Kok)

Media Markets in Scandinavia : Political Economy Aspects of Convergence and Divergence. NORDICOM Review 2007; 28: 121-134

Domesticating the Simpsons : Four Types of Citizenship in Monitorial Democracy. Politik 2006; 9 (2): 15-25