

The Digital Supply Chain

The course The Digital Supply Chain equips students with a sound understanding of involving modern information & communication technologies in SCM and its underlying key processes. Emphasis is put on the disruptive impact of technologies leading to a digital transformation of supply chains and specific roles of different actors within emerging service ecosystems. In particular, this contains knowledge and skills related to the application of tools and instruments to identify, analyze and design key components of business models based on digital technologies.